

SECURITY FORCE PERSONNEL ASSESSMENT

Most of the time there is a difference between being certified to do something, actually trained, and qualified to do something. In today's threat environments security force personnel have a wide disparity of training and techniques. Most security training is conducted as a business model with the least amount of overhead to produce a product that is "good enough". Raidon Tactics Inc can give true reality based assessments of your security force and the skills of its officers. We are there to take away the business aspect and give an unbiased external evaluation of the skills and techniques only. Of course, we have high standards, but shouldn't the protectors of our MOST VALUABLE ASSETS meet high standards? We believe so. Once the evaluation is complete, we will advise your organization on what needs to improve or what new systems can be integrated to ensure the best protection for your student body.
